

How To Get FREE Training For Your School

Thanks to a unique partnership with Studio III, I am able to offer some great opportunities to schools, colleges, specialist settings and parent/carer groups during the academic year 2019-2020.

The model is deliberately simple and proven to work. If you can host a training day you can have as many of your staff attend for FREE.

We look to sell 20+ external places at £50 per place to cover costs. You manage the bookings and arrangements for a light lunch and refreshments and I help to promote your event as well. This can be a 09:00 –16:00 day (I like to give as much value as possible) although typically the days run from 09:30 – 15:00 – you decide what is best for you.

This has worked successfully in the UK and abroad and is designed to make high quality training affordable and low-cost. These courses can be delivered to large audiences or smaller ones (a recent UK event had 6 school staff attend for free and 20 external delegates).

The most popular training day to date is the Autism, Education & Emotional Regulation course and you can download the flyer for this here. Also, do visit www.gdmorewood.com to get a flavour of other things I can do to support you and your setting. If I cannot do something you request, I will say; you are guaranteed open, honest communication.

About the trainer:

Gareth Morewood is taking a one-year sabbatical as Co-Director of Curriculum Support (SENCo) at Priestnall School during 2019-2020 & continues in his role as Education Advisor to Studio III.

Over the last twenty years Gareth has helped shape provision in a number of schools, MATs and Local Authorities across the UK, Ireland & Chile through support, research, training and consultancy in addition to being the a full-time SENCo. Gareth continues to regularly support parents/carers with SEND legislation and provision, as part of his wider interests in equality and opportunity for all.

Gareth is an Honorary Research Fellow in Education at the University of Manchester, Vice Chair of the 'senco-forum' and has written and published extensively on SEND issues and his main areas of research: autism and emotional regulation.

Gareth tweets @gdmorewood and his website can be found at www.gdmorewood.com.

Previous delegates have commented:

"A plain speaking, understandable and informative training day. Packed with good practice and follow-on resources and ideas. Thank you."

"Excellent material with some really useful, practical strategies to support students in our settings."

"Excellent, practical, useful strategies. A lot to take away and think about, thanks."

"Thank you for an informative day. The training provided a useful mix of practical strategies and research with lots of helpful links to further sources of support."
