This training package draws upon the acclaimed Saturation Model (Morewood et al, 2011) developed by the lead trainer as part of a whole-school approach to supporting autistic students in mainstream schools, fused with emotional regulation and low arousal approaches developed by Studio III (McDonnell & Deveau, 2018).

As a new training package which draws on the clinical expertise of Professor Andy McDonnell and the practical whole-school systems established and evaluated by Gareth D Morewood, 2019 will see this unique training offered for the first time to schools in the UK and abroad.

You can expect to;

- receive a strong evidence-informed training day.
- consider the challenges young people face in educational settings and in their community.
- get clear strategies that are proven to have a significant impact upon learning, engagement and with the reduction of behaviours of concern.

The day will focus on;

- individual students' areas of need.
- classroom pedagogy.
- whole-school approaches as identified in the research undertaken by the lead trainer along with the development of an understanding of stress, emotional regulation and arousal.

Training led by: Gareth D Morewood

Gareth Morewood is currently Education Advisor to Studio III (on sabbatical from his post as Co-Director of Curriculum Support at Priestnall School in Stockport).

Over the last twenty years Gareth has helped shape provision in a number of schools, MATs and local Authorities across the UK, Ireland & Chile through support, research, training and consultancy in addition to being the SENCO at Priestnall School. Gareth continues to regularly support parents/carers with SEND legislation and provision, as part of his wider interests in equality and opportunity for all.

Gareth is an Honorary Research Fellow in Education at the University of Manchester, Vice Chair of the 'senco-forum' and has written and published extensively on SEND issues and his main areas of research: autism and emotional regulation.
